This Annual Uniform Crime Report portrays the nature, volume, and extent of crime in the State of New Hampshire during 1980. All statistics presented in this publication have been accumulated through direct report submission by each law enforcement agency participating in the New Hampshire Uniform Crime Reporting Program. The data, in turn, is submitted to the Federal Bureau of Investigation for inclusion in their annual publication entitled "Crime in the United States".

This report has been prepared to provide reliable and comprehensive data to the criminal justice community. While the various crime factors should prove to be of assistance to law enforcement personnel in planning programs to combat criminal activity throughout New Hampshire, they should not be used to judge the performance of any agency. It is not the purpose of the UCR program to measure individual department effectiveness, but rather to trace and reveal total criminal activity in the state.

Appreciation and gratitude are extended to all members of the law enforcement community. Without their enthusiastic cooperation, this report would not be possible.

OVERVIEW OF UCR

The Uniform Crime Reporting Program began in the 1930's by the International Association of Chief of Police. At that time, there was perceived a need to collect information on crimes and criminals in a uniform manner across the country. It was felt that until the nature and extent of crime was defined, no definitive action could be taken against it. The wheels of the program were set in motion with the definition of seven "index crimes". These crimes were chosen because of their seriousness and frequency of occurance and are: homicide, rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, larceny, and auto theft. In order to measure crime, it was decided to collect data on these crimes and criminal offenders that became known to the police. These index crimes are as valid a measure today as they were 50 years ago.

Our Uniform Crime Reporting Program is part of a national program that involves over 15,000 participating agencies, representing over 98% of the country's population. Using uniform classification of crimes as well as uniform procedures for reporting, information is submitted through the State Police to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, who coordinate the national program. Similar procedures are followed in all the other states. This national program is the basis of one of the oldest and most widely quoted federal statistics.

The national UCR Program has been subject to much criticism in that it is not truly representative of the total amount of crime that occurs. This is a valid point. Many crimes go unreported. However, there is no valid method yet devised to measure unreported crimes. Of all the members of the criminal justice community the police are the closest to crime. Therefore, it makes more sense to collect data on offenses known to the police than offenses known to courts or corrections in order to measure crime. The further one gets from the source, the less reliable the data becomes. The objective of the New Hampshire UCR Program is twofold; to inform the public on the nature of the crime problem in our state; and to provide law enforcement administrators with criminal statistics for administrative and operational purposes.

In reading this report, there are several items to keep in mind:

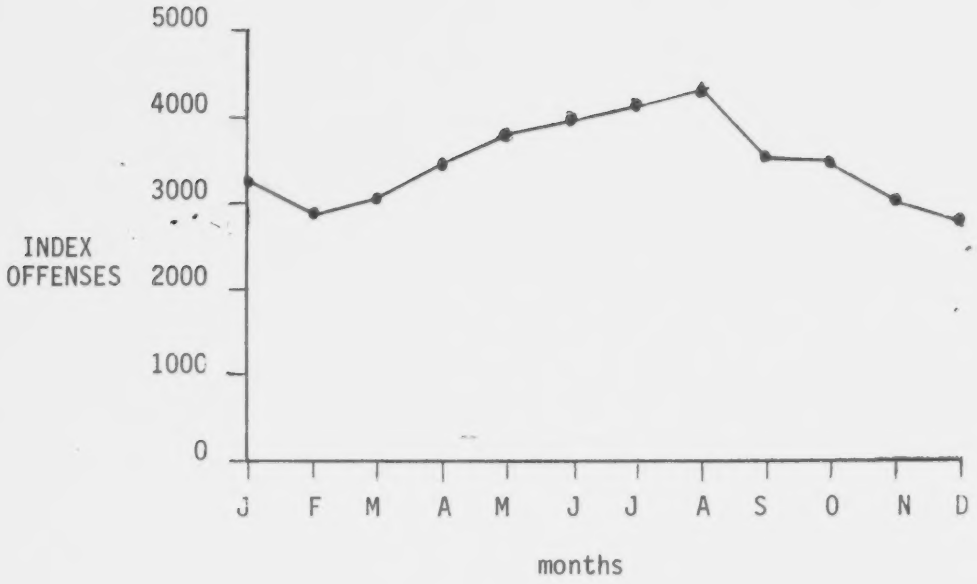
- o The index offenses are the same as previous years. The crime of Arson was added as a Part I offense, but cannot be used as an index offense for several years due to a lack of concrete data upon which to compare. For a complete breakdown of Part I and Part II offenses, consult previous years state or federal reports.

- o Crimes are cleared with the arrest or exceptional arrest of one or more individuals responsible for the crime. They are not cleared with the recovery of stolen property. A person arrested one time for multiple crimes is counted only once. The age of offender is taken from arrest reports.

- o A base population of 920,000 was used to compute the crime rate.

- o The sub-categories within an index crime may not equal the total amount of that reported offense due to incomplete reports from some agencies.

INDEX CRIMES



The "Index Crimes" in New Hampshire increased from 40,091 in 1979 to 42,176 reported in 1980. These figures are based upon reports from essentially the same jurisdictions and do not, therefore, reflect an increase in the number of contributors. Violent crimes increased 34% while property crimes increased by only 4%. Total "Index Crimes" increased by 5.2%.

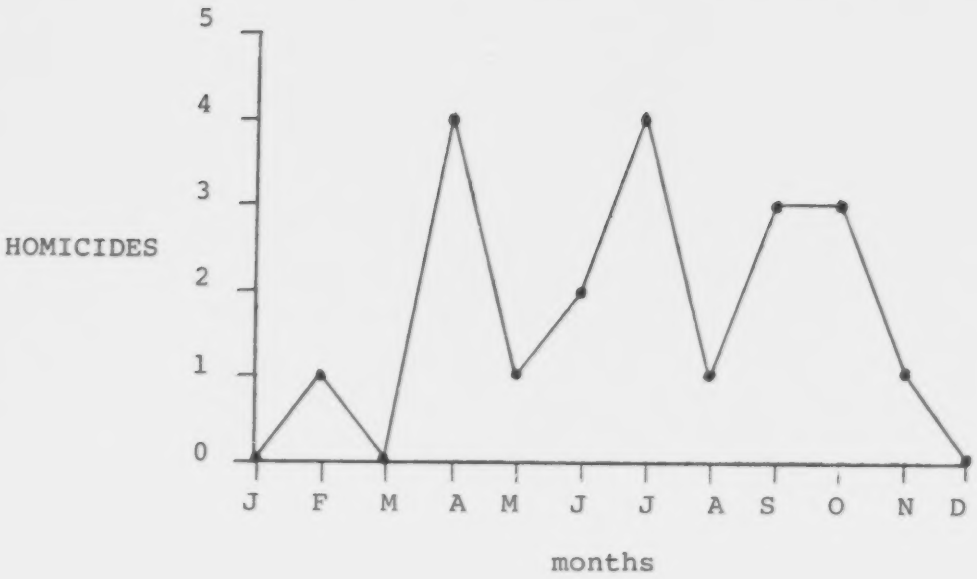
HOMICIDE



Homicide is defined as the willful (nonnegligent) killing of a human being. Any deaths due to a fight, argument, quarrel, assault, or commission of a crime is included. This index offense is scored by law enforcement officials on the basis of their investigation without regard to findings of a court or jury or the decision of a prosecutor. Attempts to kill are scored as assaults and not as murder. Suicides, accidental deaths, negligent manslaughter, and justifiable or excusable homicides are excluded.

In 1980, there were 20 homicides reported in New Hampshire. This represents a 0% increase from last year. The average number of homicides for the last three years has dropped to 17.

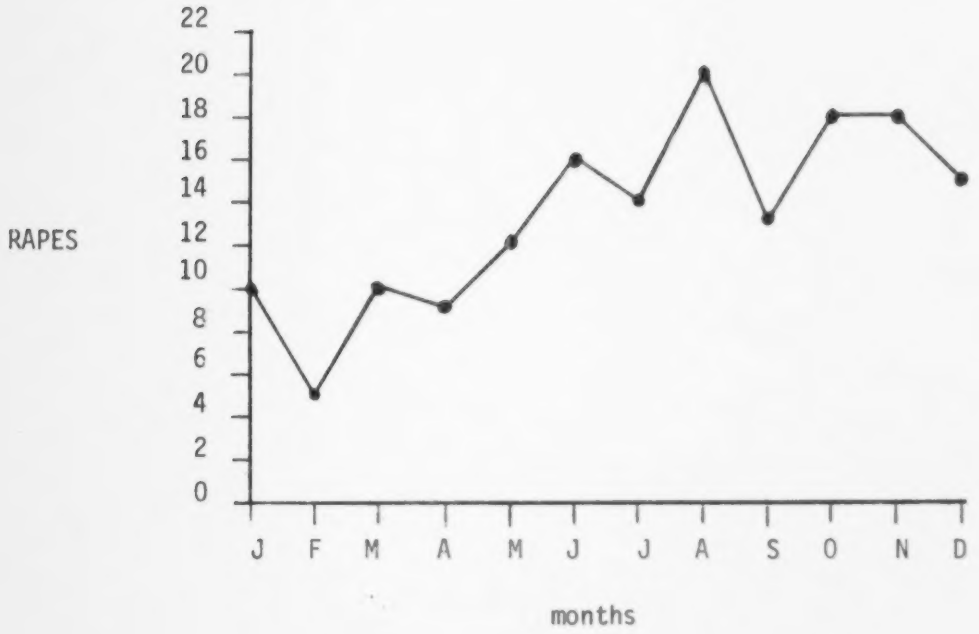
RAPE



Forcible rape is the carnal knowledge of a female forcibly and against her will. For the purpose of Uniform Crime Reporting, rape is divided into two categories; rape by force and attempted rape. Carnal abuses without force, statutory rape, and other sex offenses are not counted. In 1980 there were 160 reported rapes in the state. This figure represents a 6.7% increase over the 150 reported rapes in 1979. The average number of rapes over the last three years is 130.

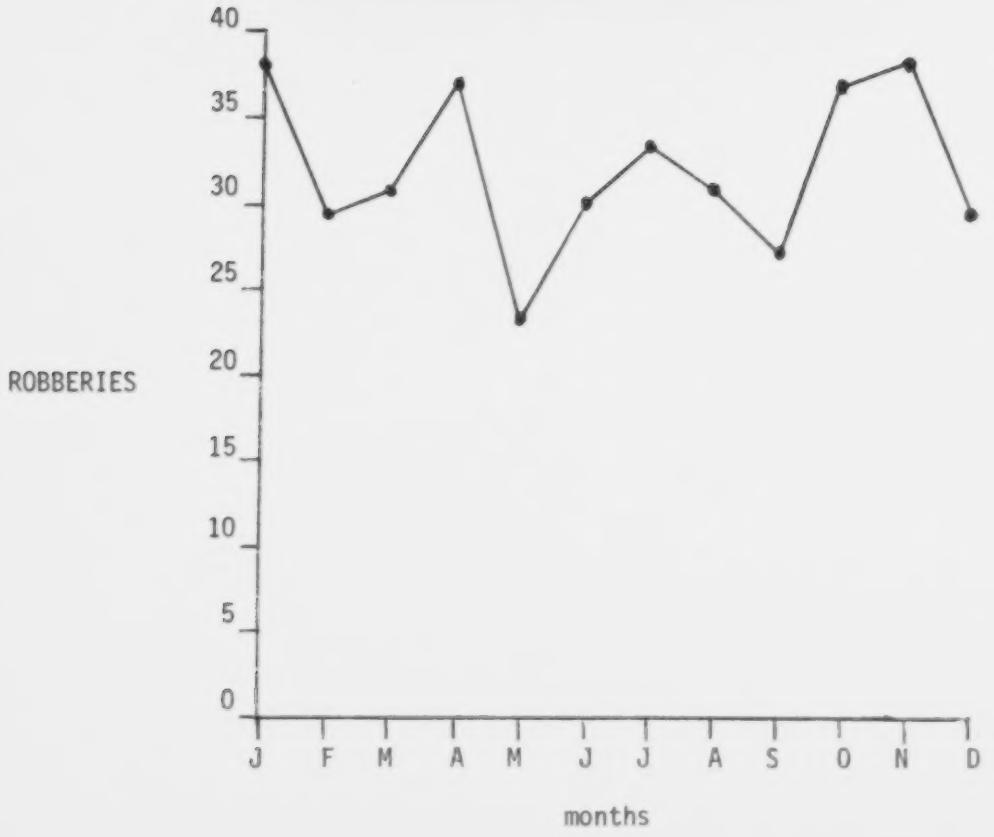
ROBBERY



Robbery is the felonious and forcible taking of the property of another, against his will, and by violence or putting the person in fear. For a crime of robbery to take place, the victim must be present. Robbery is further separated into two categories: Armed Robbery with any weapon in which an object is so employed as to constitute force or threat of force; and, strong-arm robbery in which no weapon is used. Muggings and similar offenses fall into this category. During 1980, there were 383 offenses of robbery in the state, an increase of 52% over the 1979 totals.

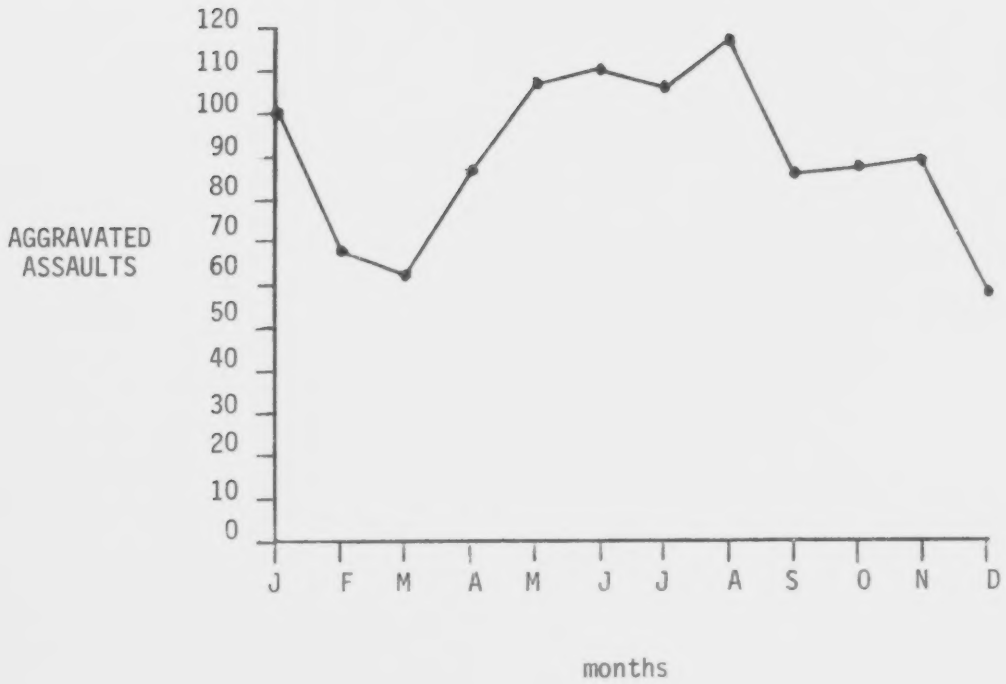
AGGRAVATED ASSAULT



Aggravated Assault is an unlawful attack by one person upon another for the purpose of inflicting severe or aggravated bodily injury. This type of assault is usually accompanied by the use of a weapon or by means likely to produce death or great bodily harm. Attempts are included since it is not necessary that an injury result when a gun, knife, or other weapon is used which could and probably would result in serious personal injury if the crime were successfully completed. During 1980 there were 1,073 aggravated assaults reported in New Hampshire, an increase of 34.8% over the previous year.

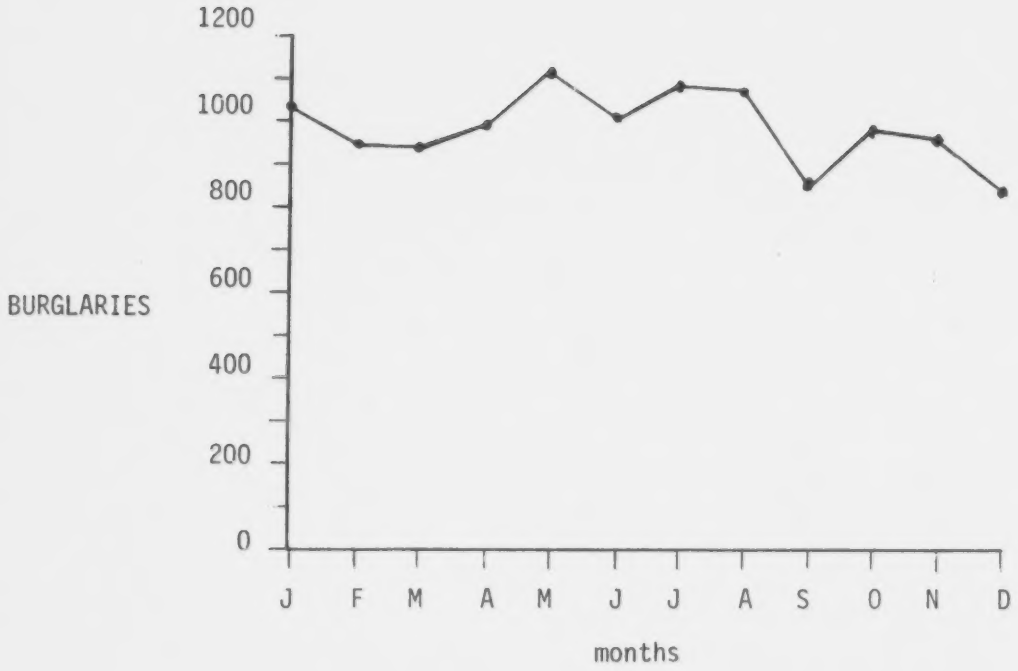
BURGLARY



Burglary is any unlawful entry of a structure to commit a felony or a theft, even though force may not be used to gain entrance. Burglary is divided into three categories: forcible entry, unlawful entry - no force, and attempted forcible entry. During 1980, there were 11,797 burglaries reported to police in New Hampshire. This represents a 12.7% increase over the previous year.

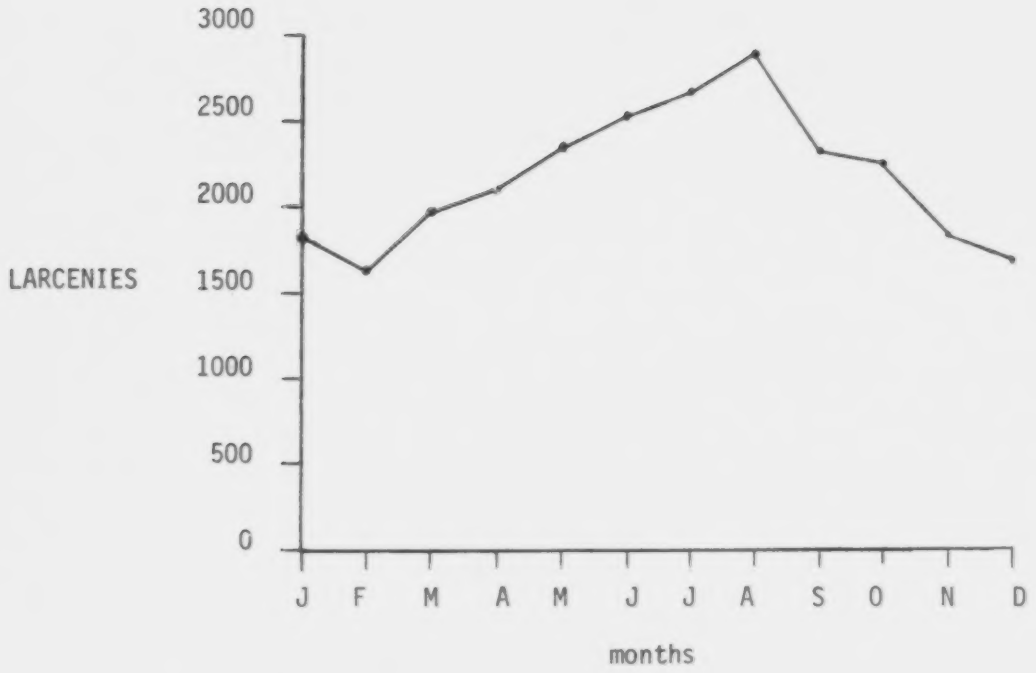
LARCENY



Larceny is the taking of personal property of another with the intent to permanently deprive them of ownership. All larcenies and thefts resulting from pocket picking, purse snatching, shoplifting, larceny from a motor vehicle, motor vehicle parts and accessories, theft of bicycles, larceny from buildings, and larceny from any coin operated machine are included in this category. Embezzlements, illegal conversion, larceny by bailee, fraud or bad check cases are not included. During 1980, a total of 25,943 offenses of larceny were reported in New Hampshire. The average value of property stolen in each larceny was $235.22.

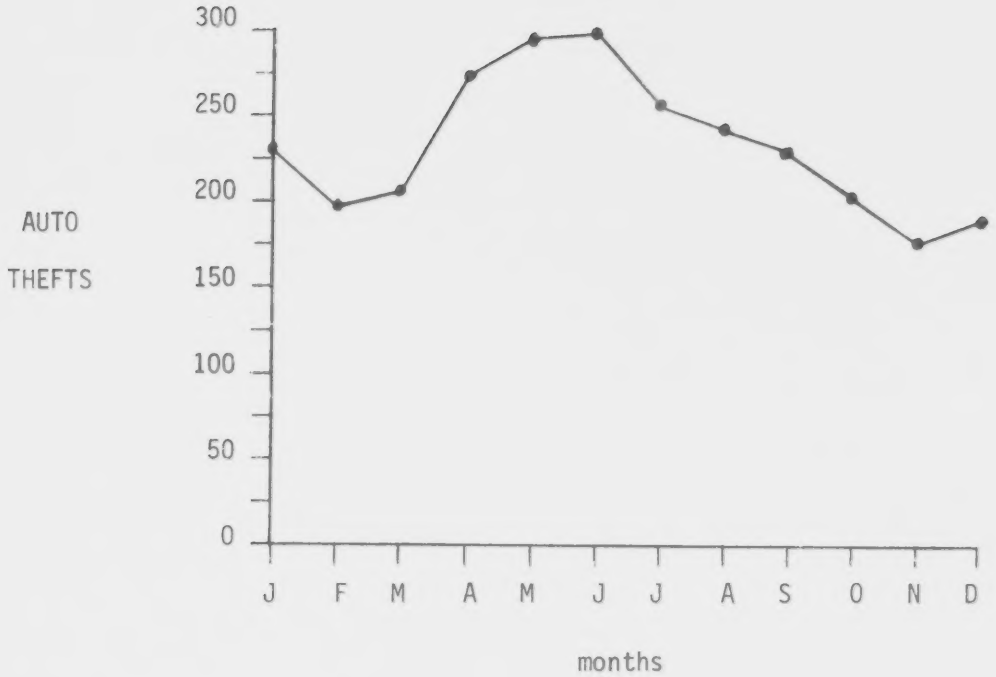
MOTOR VEHICLE THEFT



Auto theft is the larceny or attempted larceny of a motor vehicle. This includes all vehicles which can be registered as such in this state. "Joyriding" thefts are also included in this category. During the year 1980, 2,800 motor vehicles were reported stolen in New Hampshire. Sixty-six percent of this figure were automobiles, fourteen percent were trucks and buses, and twenty percent were other vehicles. Loss to victims in the state was almost 8.6 million dollars. The average loss per vehicle was $3,070.

DOMESTIC ASSAULT

In 1979, the General Court mandated the Director of State Police to present an annual report to them concerning the nature and extent of domestic violence in our state. It was decided to collect this data in conjunction with the UCR program by adding a relationship category to the information collected in assaults. The following chart indicates the relationship of the offender to the victim along with the type of weapon used in aggravated assaults and the number of simple assaults for 1980:

	RELATIONSHIP
TYPE OF ASSAULT	Husband on Wife	Wife on Husband	Parent on Child	Child on Parent	Other Household Members	No Relationship	Unknown
Firearm	9	2	2	0	3	48	6
Knife or Cutting Instrument	5	2	1	1	2	75	16
Other Dangerous Weapon	3	1	3	2	11	106	27
